I wish all Sunday readers and their mothers the very best celebration of their special day, which was formally established in America by President Woodrow Wilson in 1914:

Mother's Day is now celebrated in many countries, including in Europe, Africa, and Asia; but the holiday was first conceived in about 1905 by Anna M. Jarvis, a West Virginia high school teacher, in honor of her own mother, who had lost seven of her eleven children in early childhood. Anna Jarvis described her vision for Mother's Day this way:

To revive the dormant filial love and gratitude we owe to those who gave us birth. To be a home tie for the absent. To obliterate family estrangement. To create a bond of brotherhood through the wearing of a floral badge. To make us better children by getting us closer to the hearts of our good mothers. To brighten the lives of good mothers. To have them know we appreciate them, though we may not say so... Mothers Day is to remind us of our duty before it is too late. Did Trump pause tariffs announced on April 4 because people were "getting a little bit yippy" or because miscalculations spelled disaster? We may make new resolutions for a more active thought to our dear mothers of affection, and in every way possible, give her pleasure, and make sure we constantly keep in memory Mothers Day.

Trump Tariff Outcome? \(https://kotokreport.com/trump-tariff-outcome/\)

Does the Trump bear market bring the S&P 500 Index down to 4000? Does it result in a drop of S&P earnings (2025–2026) down to the $200–$220 range?

I asked expert David Blond why Trump and Co. selected a bizarre and discredited approach to create its trade deficit formula.
